New dept. announced

By BYU NEWS SERVICE

President Dallin H. Oaks announced yesterday the formation of a new academic department at BYU—the Department of University Studies in the College of General Studies—organized from merger of the former departments of General Curriculum, Career Orientation, Guided Studies and Tutoring.

The chairman of the new department is Dr. Spencer J. Condie, formerly of the sociology faculty. A BYU graduate of 1964, he joined the BYU faculty in 1969 after receiving his M.A. degree from the University of Utah and a Ph.D. degree from the University of Pittsburgh in medical sociology.

Students who have not declared majors will receive educational and occupational advisement from the team of advisers in the new department. Dr. Dale Goodson, former Career Orientation chairman, will coordinate this area. The associate of arts, two-year degree program, formerly called General Curriculum, will continue under Willis Banks as coordinator. Dr. Wayne Herlin, formerly Guided Studies chairman, will have responsibility for the department's curriculum.

In addition to supervising these ongoing programs, Dr. Condie and his associates have been assigned to explore the possibility of a Bachelor of University Studies degree similar to that presently awarded at a number of universities. If adopted by the University, this degree would serve as an alternative to traditional "majors" or concentrations of courses designed to train a student in a pre-determined specialty area. Analysis conducted at BYU and elsewhere indicate that some students with certain kinds of occupational and professional goals could profit from the flexibility and broad preparation of a more generalized degree program, Dr. Condie said.

The consolidation of the new department completes the recent reorganization of the College of General Studies, whose dean, Dr. C. Terry Warner, was appointed last June.

Secret talks end

ARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger ended a two-day secret session with North Vietnamese peace negotiators yesterday and flew back to Washington. U.S. officials said it was the longest of 18 private meetings the presidential adviser has held with Le Duc Tho, a top Politburo member and special adviser to the North Vietnamese peace negotiator, and Xuan Thuy, the chief of delegation.

The two days of talks were cloaked in secrecy. First word of the meeting came from a White House announcement yesterday. The White House later said the meeting was being extended an additional day. Extension of the meeting to two days roused a flurry of speculation here that there was no word from any credible source as to what may have been discussed or why an extra day needed this time.

Speculation centered on the Viet Cong and for a tripartite provisional government to replace the regime of North Vietnam.

It has been the principal topic of the press debate in the weekly, semipublic meeting of the four peace delegations.

The Americans and South Vietnamese have rejected the plan. The Communists have insisted that the United States stop supporting Thieu, cease its aerial attacks in North and South Vietnam and ends its mining of ports in the North, the war will go on.

The United States and South Vietnam have argued that the Communists are trying to win at the negotiating table what they have been unable to gain on the battlefield.

President's brother

A Nixon here today

President Nixon's brother Edward will speak along with various state and local Republican candidates at 2:30 p.m. today in West Patio, ELWC.

David Monson, candidate for state auditor, will lead off at 1:30 p.m. Republican candidate for Congress, Bob Wolthuis, will speak at 2 p.m. with Edward Nixon and Nick Strick, Utah gubernatorial hopeful, sharing the podium from 2:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Several local candidates will also be in attendance.

Bill Dunn, candidate for secretary of state, is also expected to attend the rally, reports George Ryskamp, chairman of the BYU Re-Elect the President Committee. Dorothy Clark, vice chairman of the State Republican Party, and Claudius Stevenson, Utah County Republican chairman, will both lend their support by attending.

Nixon, who tops the list of speakers, is co-chairman of the national committee to Re-elect the President. He has often been referred to as the younger copy of the President because of his "overwhelming similarity in looks with the President," explains Ryskamp.

Arriving on campus, from another rally in Salt Lake City, at 1:45 p.m., Nixon will lunch in the Sky Room with local city and county officials and some members of BYU's administration.

"If response to Edward Nixon is good at this rally," explains Ryskamp, "we may have an excellent opportunity to get Vice President Agnew on campus during his October visit to Utah. It all depends on the kind of support we can muster at this rally."

Freshmen elections today

Final elections for freshman class officers will be conducted today between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. with voting booths in the Reception Center of the ELWC.

The primary elections which narrowed the field from 17 to six saw only 800 freshmen vote. This means only one out of every four voted in the primary.

The candidates are Kevin Kane and Steve Hardie for president, Gordon Benson and Richard Vial for vice-president and for secretary Valerie Dala and Scott Astle.

For platform information on the candidates, see the story on page three.

Queen finalists picked

Six finalists in this year's Homecoming Queen competition were named last night and will now await the outcome of a student vote to determine BYU's new Homecoming Royalty.

Voting will take place today and Friday in the ELWC Reception Center. The contest began last week with 76 contestants participating in the extemporaneous speaking competition, after which the field was cut to 20.

Personal interviews with a special faculty committee reduced the number to 12 semi-finalists before last night's talent contest. The Queen and her two attendants will be introduced to the student body Oct. 10, at 10 a.m., in a student assembly.

Donation drive

Utah County UF sets goal

Last year the BYU staff gave more money to the United Fund than any other university of its size in the nation, reported Jack Holmes, executive director for the Utah County United Fund.

"IN ALL," he said, "teachers, administrators, secretaries and other staff members gave $42,000."

This year, said Holmes, who is a BYU graduate in youth leadership, the Utah County UF hopes to receive $285,000 in donations. This money, he explained, will go to help 17 non-profit organizations in financing this year's activities.

A breakdown of the funds received by the most prominent organizations shows the Boy Scouts - $117,000; Girl Scouts - $14,000; Red Cross - $44,000, and Mental Health - $8,500.

The bulk of the funds will come from regular payroll deductions. Holmes said the average deduction is $1.50 or about $18 a year.

To reach this year's goal the UF expects to make 23,000 contacts with students in the past haven't had an organized effort in behalf of the UF, but, Holmes said last year students were able to give $300 through various fund raising activities.

If students would rather give service than money, Holmes said, they can do volunteer work. All of the organizations the UF gives funds to depend a great deal upon volunteer work.

HOLMES EMPHASIZED the role the downtown businesses play in the UF efforts. Many businessmen and women give two, three or as much as 6 hours a day in behalf of the UF.

Last year, he continued, U.S. Steel, which has 5,000 employees participating in the program, donated $10,000 worth of time, effort and materials in helping to put on the campaign.

The UF campaign, in its ninth year in Utah County, will be on until the end of November.

Orem cyclist condition good

A student cyclist was reported in good condition yesterday after being struck by a BYU vehicle driven by another student.

Richard Thayne, 18 of Orem, was crossing West Campus Dr., Tuesday, near the Victory Bell, when he was hit by the truck driven by Denise Taft, 20, of Ashtabula, Ohio, according to BYU Security Sgt., Ron West.

Thayne remains in Utah Valley Hospital after undergoing surgery for a possible broken ankle and torn knee ligaments.

Applications due

Student teaching applications for the Winter Semester continue to be accepted by the Teacher Clearance Office, Young House North.

According to the TCO, applications for students whose last names begin with G through M will be accepted no later than 5 p.m. this Friday. The deadline for applications N-T is Oct. 6 and U-Z is Oct. 13.

Provo man needs O-positive blood

O-positive blood is needed for a Provo man at Utah Valley Hospital, according to his wife, Mrs. Eldon Payne.

Payne, who has leukemia, is undergoing an operation today which will require 12 pints of blood. Volunteer donations will be taken for Payne at the blood bank at Utah Valley Hospital.

Those with blood types other than O-positive may contribute as donor replacements, according to Sandra Cullimore, blood bank director.

Freshman class

Candidates give platforms

PRESIDENT
KEVIN KANE

If you will look at the platform of most of the other freshman candidates you will find them to center around "freshman" activities, such as "freshman" dances and "freshman" outings, etc. which have historically been very poorly attended. This should all something!

I feel the first role of the Freshman Class Government should be one of integrating the freshman into the total BYU Student Body instead of segregating them by "freshman activities."

I see the Freshman Class government more as a freshman service agency. For instance, freshman government should be involved with informing students of BYU services and facilities, as well as informing them on such things as voter registration and voting procedures for the November elections.

STEVE HARDLE

I feel both Kevin Kane and myself are qualified for the position of Freshman Class President. Therefore, platform should be the main consideration in choosing your candidate. I think you will find my platform very specific:

1. Organize Super Activity for "Y" Day
2. Organize freshman homecoming float
3. Help freshman girls bake cookies for L.T.M. missionaries
4. Organize "Sundance Lum" Super Activity
5. Raise money for library
6. Involve freshmen in service projects
7. Organize freshman cheerleaders
8. Organize Freshman Activity Council
9. Initiate "Freshman Week"
10. Be aware of other opportunities

The above things, along with service, I can promise you.

Workshop set for Thursday

A regional auxiliary workshop for leaders of the 10 BYU stakes is scheduled for Thursday at 6:30 a.m. in the ELWC Ballroom, according to the President J. Wayne Dudley of the 1st Stake.

The workshop will be led by Elder G. LaMont Richards, regional representative, who will be assisted by members of the General Boards of the Sunday School, MIA, Relief Society and Primary.

Those requested to attend are stake presidencies, high councilors and auxiliary organizations, stake auxiliary executives and boards, branch presidencies, and branch YMMIA and YWMA presidents.

VICE-PRESIDENT
GORDON BENSON

This year's ASBYU President has said, "BYU is more than a university—it has a prophetic destiny in which we all participate." As freshman class officers, we must serve you so that together we can achieve this destiny. This can only be accomplished through cooperation, correlation, and service.

COOPERATION—To determine the interests of the freshman class through responsive listening, and then to cooperate with the ASBYU council to achieve these interests.

CORRELATION—To correlate freshman class interests with other campus programs to provide more meaningful opportunities for freshmen.

SERVICE—To serve, not to govern is the function of the freshman class officers. They should listen and answer the needs of freshmen.

RICHARD VIAL

The slogan of our great university if "Enter to Learn, Go Forth To Serve." If elected to this office, this must be my prime objective, the action of service. I am a great believer in attitudes and I feel that in order to be successful in any group that includes rules, we must understand why, instead of being forced to follow them. Example, BYU dress and conduct codes. One thing that particularly concerns me about the present state of our freshman class is the fact that they do not know what's going on around them. The trick here is not necessarily to get the information to the individual, but rather to get the sources of information to the individual.

I believe that the faith and determination of this student body will have a profound effect upon the world in the future, and that the leadership of it is a step in Priesthood Correlation coming directly from the First Presidency.

SECRETARY
VALERIA DALA

I would like to do my best to serve the president, vice-president, and the entire freshman class. But to serve the freshman it is necessary to know you. A good way by which the leaders could get to know their fellow students, I think, is by having an informal meeting twice a month for all those interested.

Missionary reunions

October Conference brings missionary reunions and hundreds of ex-missionaries anxious to meet with their old companions and friends.

As a public service, the Daily Universe will print the announcement of the reunions, hopefully with the cooperation of those interested.

Reunion announcements must be submitted to the Universe office, fifth floor, ELWC, no later than 9 a.m. Tuesday so they can be printed in Wednesday's paper.

Announcements should be kept brief—who, where, when and any costs involved. Announcements should be typed, with margins set at 15 and 86 to aid in publication.

Cast announced

'Starlight' star bright

The cast for "Starlight", the first Readers Theatre production of this year, has been announced by Dr. Preston R. Giedhill of the Speech and Dramatic Arts Dept.

"Starlight" is the story of a young couple who meets in the pre-ear existence, fall in love and find each other again after coming to earth. Roles of the young couple will be played by Deborah Larsen and Jim Bird, both sophomores in speech and drama.

Deborah, who plays Elana, has previously worked in the production "Westside Story" and "Pajama Game". Jim was in the BYU Readers Theatre presentation, "Montrose Crossing". Graduate student Bryce Chamberlain, a theatre major, will fill the role of the worldly, famous musician, Homer Vaget. Playing opposite Bryce is Shauna Struthers, freshman nursing student. She plays Melody Heath, the girl in love with Homer.

Not till March

Money may yet grow on trees

"Federally insured loans are undergoing changes which will free additional money for students to borrow and, at the same time, place more accountability on students for their borrowing." This was the word yesterday from Boyd G. Worthington, BYU financial aid officer.

Congress enacted an amendment to the Education Act on June 23, 1972, creating changes in the Guaranteed Student Loan Program. When the act went into effect on July 2, it resulted in so much chaos Congress suspended the new program until March 1, 1973, Worthington explained.

"Students need to be aware that they will be applying under a new program not yet defined which will allow them to borrow more money, but they will also need to show they need the money to finish school," Worthington said.

The suspension of the program for six months will give the Office of Education time to define and explain the provisions of the new amendment, Worthington said. When the program operated in July, it was unclear, unreasonably and extremely restrictive, he indicated.

The current program enables a student to borrow up to $1,500 per academic year for educational expenses. If the student's family income is less than $15,000, the government pays the interest until nine months after the student leaves school or graduates. The repayment, Worthington principal is then due for explained.

Calling out the reserves

Once again the mighty roar of students filing into the Marriott Center was heard throughout the land.

Once again, the problem arises of "saving" seats.

Why, oh why, must we go through the same miserable process each semester?

When a beloved speaker such as Elder Marion Hanks visits BYU, it's fairly obvious that a lot of students, faculty and administration wanted to see and hear him.

We thank senior S. Richardson for his cryptic letter to the editor scrawled on the back of two "reserved passes" pointing out that this inconvenience continues. And well he quoted President Oaks as saying that "our tradition forbids the saving of seats at assemblies."

Is it obvious to those who reserved the seats that, though friends like to sit together, we are all "friends" at BYU, and this kind of action bucks against that philosophy?

Why must people have to scramble around the Center or the de Jong Concert Hall, or the Varsity Theater, or the Joseph Smith Auditorium trying to find a seat when empty seats are being "saved"?

The not-so-kind thoughts generated in the minds of the searching students might result in THEM having to be "saved."

ANOTHER "why?" involves Devotional and forum assemblies, and classes for that matter.

Why, at a university, is it necessary for an announcement to be made requesting people to move to the center of the now?

Every time the announcement is made there is a muffled groan from the afflicted students who have to move. If they filled in the center seats in the first place, without having to be told—this is college, remember?—then they wouldn't be put to the inconvenience of playing unmusical chairs.

Having struggled to get into one of the auditoriums, there eventually comes the problem of struggling out. Here we see evidenced the terribly-busy-must-go-now-early-leaver.

Most early leavers claim, as they trample on other people's feet, books and anything else which happens to be in their way, that if they don't leave early they will be late for class.

So will everyone else, so what's the rush?

How can we claim to be mature students who do not need BYU to act as a baby-sitter when it's fairly obvious that there are some who need just that?

Last week a fire alarm sounded in the Wilkinson Center for five and a half minutes and the building was not evacuated. The reason was the vast majority of the students simply did not recognize the alarm.

Luckily for all concerned the alarm was the result of work being done on the system and not a fire, but it did point up a serious deficiency in the education of the student body.

The situation could be amended if the alarms were sounded for a brief period on a regular basis. In this way students and instructors alike could become familiar with the sound and be in a position to take appropriate action in an emergency.

The idea is not new. In San Francisco, Calif. every Tuesday at noon the Civic Defense sirens all over the city are turned on for ten seconds and every citizen recognizes the sound.

The administration should consider taking such steps to insure the safety of the student-body in the event of a fire.

DEAD OR ALIVE

Editor:

This is a personal letter to the student who stole my lunch from the back of the J.S. Auditorium between 10:55 and 11:10 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 27 prior to a History 170 lecture. I sincerely hope he enjoyed what he ate of it, and I apologize to him for waking up before he could eat the orange which he had already peeled. It may interest this person to know that I have identified him, and would appreciate him reimbursing me by sending $1 to Glenn McKeever, T-411, Desert Town. If you are actually so poor that you have to steal to eat, just say so in a short letter, and I'll send you a dollar. This is up to you; I shall take no further action, as I know your action does not reflect your true character.

Glenn E. McKeever
Junior

GREAT EXPECTORATIONS

Editor:

The announcement will no doubt come as a great shock to some people here, but the track in the Joseph Smith Fieldhouse is not, was never meant to be and hopefully will cease to be a sports. It disputes me greatly to be running around the track, only to be confronted by some "athletes" who find it necessary to expostulate on the very spot where I and many others take our exercise. There are some people who, through force of circumstances or whatever, run the track barefooted. I hope they go home and disinfect their soles. The next time I see someone down there sprinting, I may just blow my nose in their sweat shirt.

NEWS PLACEMENT

Editor:

I would like to comment on the placement of the Sept. 28 issue of the Universe. Specifically I refer to the articles "Johnny Is My Day" and "Deno's Ideas Analyzed." In the second article we are told that Robert Eisner will lecture on George McGovern's economic policies Thursday night. This is a topic that should be of vital concern to most students on this campus. We have a chance to rationally discuss one of the most misunderstood candidates in recent years, yet is relegated to a side column in page 10 instead of page one where I believe. Indeed we find on page one an article proclaiming that it is Johnny Appleseed Day. This may be so for all the apple peddlers at BYU, but it is not what I would call front page material.

I hope that a little more thought can go into the placement of future articles in the Universe.

Kent Chis
President

WHERE HAVE ALL THE ISSUES GONE?

Editor:

How can people care about war, poverty, politics and human rights when such important things as toilet paper, football, and what sport are issues? When it comes to war, starving children, and BYU football, there has been a trend.

Housing adds new coloring

Dormitories and off-campus houses will take on a festive appearance as Homecoming approaches.

The brown and white on-campus buildings will put on a new coat of color as students join together to decorate their respective halls. They will be competing against each other in the annual Homecoming Decorating contest.

Entrance applications will be accepted until 5 p.m., Monday, Oct. 2 in room 114 ELWC. Judging will take place Oct. 11 at 7:30 p.m. and Oct. 12 at 10 a.m. Judges will be looking at both day and night efforts in making their decisions.

STUDENTS PARTICIPATING off campus will be judged on window displays only. They are to keep cost of the decorations at a minimum. Those students desiring to decorate the rest of their house may do so. One trophy will be awarded to the best off-campus window display.

A $50 limit has been set on expenditures for on-campus decorating. The money comes from each hall's dues fund.

Five trophies will be awarded to the units having accumulated the most points. A total of 300 points is possible. Decorations will be judged on theme, creativity and humor.

First and second place trophies will be awarded for the best creative efforts. One trophy will be given for humor. First and second place trophies will also be given under the heading of sweepstakes.

Friday the 13th will feature something besides the traditional bad luck for most students this year.

Pie-eating contests, a tug-of-war, chariot races, a bubble-gum blowing contest and other events are all scheduled on Oct. 13 as a part of Homecoming week, according to Carol Kinney, who is supervising the day's events.

Various daily events will be featured all week long preceding the Homecoming game on Oct. 14. All BYU clubs, branches, organizations and independent groups are eligible to participate in Friday's events.

Applications for participation are available now in the Homecoming Office, 114 ELWC. They are due by Oct. 9 at 5 p.m. in the office.

Forum series aired

An address entitled "Humans in Universe" by philosopher-scientist R. Buckminster Fuller will be aired by KBYU Sunday Oct. 1 at 9 p.m.

The broadcast is part of the "Ford Hall Forum" lecture series presently in Boston, Mass.

A recipient of 29 honorary doctoral degrees and 21 major awards in design and architecture, Fuller never received a bachelor's degree after being expelled from Harvard University in his freshman year.

An author of 11 books, he is currently designing three new international airports in India and several structures in other countries.

Studies give foreign flavor

For students who desire to broaden their education with a foreign flavor, BYU offers a European Studies Program to prepare students for careers and advanced studies on contemporary Europe.

History, geography, economics and politics are included in this program. Other features are art, literature, music and philosophy.

Students gain a working competency in one of the key languages of Europe in the study curriculum and are encouraged to take advantage of the University-sponsored semester abroad programs in Austria, France and Spain.

Faculty members who have first-hand experience in Europe through extensive travel, research and teaching residency, are available in all areas of the study program. The courses offered in Europe allow students leeway in choosing their classes.

Dr. Edward Morrell is coordinating European Studies.

Selection of albums available

Students may now check out albums of their choice from the BYU Record Lending Library, according to Craig Johnson, library director.

Located across from the Photo Studio on the ELWC first floor, the library features a wide selection of albums including popular, rock, folk, sound tracks, classical and dance music.

The library will be open Monday and Tuesday 3-5 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday 3-7 p.m., Friday 2-6 p.m. and Saturday 1-3 p.m.

BYU production

'Caesar' updates toga

By BYU NEWS SERVICE

With the flourish of banners, brandished muskets, sounds of rockets and bombardments, a new version of Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" will begin Oct. 13 in the Pardoe Drama Theater and Nov. 8 at Promised Valley Theater in Salt Lake City.

Under the direction of Dr. Harold I. Hansen, the BYU production promises action, costume and setting probably never before seen in this play.

Stepping away from traditional renditions of the Shakespearean classic, Dr. Hansen said, "Much of the spirit that dominated Napoleonic France will now dominate Caesar's Rome. The philosophy of the play will parallel the militaristic, bold world of Napoleon."

The play concerns Julius Caesar, who a group of aristocrats fear will assume absolute power in Rome. They plot and assassinate the would-be dictator, but the populace is turned against him by the oratory of Antonius, civil war ensues.

In this version, however, the toga of the Roman senators 100 B.C. will be replaced by costumes more nearly resembling those of Napoleonic France.

Costuming and set designs will help to create the mood of the play. Hansen has outlined action stage, with an aura of the decay of traditional setting for this play. The production will begin Oct. 13 and continue through Oct. 15 in the Pardoe Drama Theater. The IFAC. No performances will be given on Sundays. Matins will be presented at 1:10 p.m. Mondays and Tuesdays, Oct. 16-17 and Oct. 23-24. Regular p.m. shows will be given all other days (Tuesdays through Saturdays) of those two weeks.

Brush up

The whole tooth and nothing but

By KEN HARVEY
Universe Staff Writer

"It's a sad fact that most people, as well as have never owned a toothbrush for all the good they've ever done with it. Most people can brush their teeth as many times a day as they want and keep right on having dental decay."

So claims dentist Dr. Robert Arkey. He and other supporters of preventive dentistry now warn that patients must do more than brush their teeth. They must eat right and then brush, floss, rinse, and seal their teeth.

Tooth decay and periodontal disease are ignored epidemics. The U.S. Public Health Service reports that 98 percent of all Americans have cavities, the average number being five unfilled cavities. Some reportedly have as many as 40. In addition, almost 20 percent of U.S. adults have lost all their teeth.

Despite the size of the dental epidemic facing them, proponents of preventive dentistry claim that none the public is educated and motivated, dental disease can become as rare as smallpox.

THE KEY to preventive dentistry lies in the removal of plaque, a soft, white, gummy substance which is continually deposited on the teeth. The various types of bacteria found in plaque convert sugar in food into acid which damages tooth enamel, gum tissues and the supporting bone structure.

Dr. Richard Miner of Springfield agrees that if people will remove plaque, they cannot get decay, or bleeding gums. The patient can prevent it, but only the dentist can stop it after decay has begun.

Many people accept bleeding gums as normal, but it is the first sign of gum disease. "If your sweetheart ran her hand through our hair and brought it out covered with blood and a sweetly, acetone-filled, gummy substance, you would be motivated to do what the doctor said to eliminate the disease," Dr. Miner speculated.

"That very disease exists in a person's mouth, yet it's very difficult to motivate him to do what is necessary to eliminate it."

IN ADDITION to the traditional method of brushing, flossing is now seen as essential in removal of plaque between the teeth.

Here's one time when the eye has it. And it usually doesn't like what it sees. But persons who take care of their teeth can make visiting the dentist a less painful experience.

Fluoride, too, helps prevent cavities by hardening tooth enamel, making it less penetrable by the acid produced by plaque. Another method of making teeth acid-resistant is application of a newly developed sealant. Tests run in Rochester, N.Y. showed up to 99 percent effectiveness for the first following year. Some dentists in the Provo area are successfully using this sealant, too.

"Diet is the main control," says Dr. John R. Bench of Orem. "Flossing is fine, but even plaque can be relatively harmless if it isn't filled with bacteria fed with sugar."

Dr. Miner adds that bacteria only produce acids for 20 minutes following the consumption of sugar. Therefore those who eat numerous times a day are far more exposed to acid than those who eat only at mealtimes.

ONE OF THE main hopes for preventive dentistry is the development of a chemical which can dissolve plaque. Already one mouthwash, Scope, claims to dissolve 35 percent of the plaque in one's mouth, and is recommended by the American Dental Society.

Stopping the dental disease epidemic depends on educating and motivating the people. For this reason more dentists are beginning formal classes to teach and train their patients thoroughly concerning preventive dentistry.

"It is more than a learning process," concludes Dr. Miner. "You have to change behavior. This requires supervision over a long period of time to motivate patients to develop new habits of eating and dental care."

PROTECTION

SEATTLE (AP)—Paul W. Heck thought he had adequate protection from burglars. His arsenal included 10 pistols, two carbine rifles, a submachine gun, 10,000 rounds of ammunition. He reported to police that burglars broke in and stole it all, taking five cameras as good measure.

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

- Understanding psychological factors of weight control.
- Controlling behavior through commitment-action training.
- Planning action for eating, physical activity, social relations, and personal adjustments.
- Discovering individual uniqueness in weight control.
- Increasing self-determination: the choices you make, make you.
- Participation in group support and mutual motivation.
- Gaining more complete satisfaction—trading a full stomach for a full life.
- Committing self to permanent weight control.

IN A NUTSHELL

This workshop is designed to help you lose weight and keep it off through controlled behavior, positive feelings, and clear thinking. This model utilizes concepts and action where you learn by doing. The basic workshop includes—

1. 10 weekly sessions of 2 hours each
2. Participant manual
3. Group involvement
4. Individual focus

The instructors for this program are professionally trained by the Weight Control Institute's staff of clinical psychologists and counselors who are experienced in the field of weight control and behavioral change.

REGISTRATION INFORMATION

The workshop may be taken either as an audit class with out credit, as a two-hour college credit class in Health Science 503R or as a two-credit-hour class in Psychology 240. Simply check (✓) either the Credit Hours column or Audit Hours column on the registration form

If you are genuinely interested in weight control, fill out the registration form and join us for a stimulating workshop experience

Provo merchants eye projected parking lot

Six acres of off-Center Street parking will soon be available in downtown Provo.

John Chamberlain of Provo's Redevelopment Agency expects the completion of the first three acres by Christmas, with the remaining three finished by next summer.

The razing of the Bellmont Apts. and the movement of a house on 1st South and 2nd West mark the first movements to implement this parking, according to Bruce Manning of the Provo Chamber of Commerce.

Envisioned is the ultimate removal of parking from Center Street with its relocation behind the stores. Some businessmen anticipate a remodeling of the back of their buildings for more eye-appeal.

The decision to allow parking on Center Street was made six years ago in a meeting between retail merchants and the Chamber of Commerce.

Myrtle Mills, manager of Lerner's, was present at that meeting.

"Having parking on Center Street proved a boon to customers then and now," Mrs. Mills asserted. "I think the new lots are a great idea, but I'm all for maintaining parking in front. I've had very few complaints from customers."

Another Provo businessman expressed a similar opinion and stated that he had "more business since parking was allowed on that street."

The manager of Woolworth's, though unaware of the expected movement of parking, stated, "Parking has been a real problem thus far, but I can't see that customers can have it any more convenient than it is now."

Doubt was also expressed by John Bellmont of Hoover's concerning the availability of land in the vicinity for parking lots.

With the final clearing of six downtown acres, parking problems will be eliminated near Center Street. The field and the house will soon be replaced by modern parking facilities.

Frost raises fruit prices

High prices and a limited selection have resulted from Utah County's loss of 80 per cent of its fruit crop due to frost damage.

"The county lost $7 to $8 million," said Joel Barlow, county agricultural agent. "Prices are approximately doubled over last year."

Sweet cherries were the hardest hit, followed by apples, pears and peaches, he told the Universe.

Some apricots, raspberries, strawberries and plums survived the harsh spring weather and came early this summer. The apple harvest, consisting primarily of Roman Beauties and some Delicious, begins this week, according to Barlow.

While much of the county's fruit was heavily hit, area vegetables were not affected.

"Until frost comes, there will be tomatoes, corn, cucumbers, beans, summer squash and zucchini," added Barlow. "Oregon and Spanish Fork produce stands and area grocery stores will offer the best selections."

Heating systems to fight frost have been installed by some growers. Except in extreme conditions, these should save orchards.

Danforth Fellows

An orientation meeting for graduating seniors or recent graduates interested in the Danforth Graduate Fellowship will be Thursday at 4 p.m. in 290 JKB.

Further information can be obtained by contacting Hal Heaton, 436 JRCL, 2-3 p.m. Monday-Friday or by calling 373-3356 after 6 p.m.

Four applicants will be named from BYU to compete for the 120 fellowships to be awarded in March. Danforth Graduate Fellows are eligible for four years of financial assistance, with a maximum annual living stipend of $2,400 for those who are single and $2,950 for married students. Dependency allowances are also available, but financial need is not a condition for consideration.

Candidates must file for the Graduate Record Exam before Oct. 3 and submit applications to the Selection Committee by Oct. 20, according to Dr. C. Terry Warner, the Danforth liaison officer for BYU.

The fellowships are open to men and women seniors or recent graduates who plan to teach in college as a career.

New teaching aids help students use library

Many BYU Students do poorly simply because they don't know how to use the library. Now the library is trying to do something about it.

"I am amazed at how many people never get past the Reader's Guide," said Marvin Higgins, coordinator for reference services. "They don't get quality material from the 'Reader's Guide' so they don't produce quality work. It's as simple as that," added Higgins.

This year, the library is offering short programmed learning sequence on the card catalogue, said Higgins. Before taking the program, students are given a pre-test. The average score is 32 percent. After completing the program, the students usually get around 84 percent.

The program deals with six subjects including, filing rules, call numbers, cross reference, author and subject cards, tracing, and the library of Congress subject headings catalogue, said Higgins. Another one of the programs to students has been the taped library tour, which started in 1970. The student picks up a tape and a recorder on the fifth floor. He is then carefully guided around the physical facilities only, said Higgins.

"We had some problems when the tour first started," Higgins said. "We first tried to direct students by using North, South, East and West as reference points. We soon discovered that only Utahns knew where North was."

The tour now uses the reference desks as points to begin the tour, said Higgins.

"We also had to change our instructions concerning the periodical and subject indexes," added Higgins. However, most of the problems have now been ironed out.

This year, all freshman English students must take both the tour and the program as part of English 111.

These birds ain't chicken

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Swallows leave Capistrano. Geese leave Canada. But they can't persuade the chickens to leave Coral Gables.

Residents along San Marco Avenue said about 18 months ago two chickens were moved into the exclusive neighborhood despite a ban on keeping them.

Some people, thinking the birds were cute, fed them and protected them from dogs and cats.

The two chickens grew to a flock of 20 which holds an a cappella chorus about 4:30 each morning to the dismay of people trying to get some sleep.

Asst. City Manager Hank Potterfield at one point filed suit against the man who was believed to have brought the first two chickens to the area.

The court ordered the man to get rid of them.

He showed up with a shotgun bright and early one morning and started blasting away. The chickens flew to safety and have since become much more wary of humankind.

Jazzy music

An informal concert will be presented today at 10 a.m. in the memorial room of the ELWC by a BYU Jazz-Rock ensemble.

Professor Newell Dayley of the BYU music faculty is director of the 20 piece band, which performs music combining the style of the rock idiom with the maturity of the jazz idiom.

Every student who wants to live, possess, or store an automobile in or around Provo while the university is in session, at regular that vehicle with the county Office. This should be done within 48 hours after bringing it to the Provo area. Registration does not entitle a student to park on campus until after 4:00 p.m. Parking permits may be obtained by juniors, seniors, and graduate students for $2. Others may obtain over-class permits for $6.

IFF feature

'Cranes' fly over Provo, BYU

One of the most acclaimed Soviet films of all time, "The Cranes are Flying," will be presented this weekend, Sept. 28-30 by the International Cinema.

Set during World War II, the film is a tragic story of the shattering of youthful ambitions and love by war. The "Film Quarterly" calls it "one of the best to arrive recently in America."

Also featured with "The Cranes are Flying" is the French film, "Last Year at Marienbad," one of the most controversial works of the French New Wave. The film is a surrealistic portrait of a beautiful woman who meets a man who convinces her that they have met before and had planned to meet once again and run away together.

Alain Resnais, who directs the screenplay, says it's "...a film about the uncertainties of love. "Marienbad" is addressed less to the intelligence than to the feelings."

The movies will be shown in 184 JKB at 5, 7 and 9 p.m. Thursday's opening feature begins at 4:30 p.m.

Admission for each film is 75 cents at the door or 50 cents through the purchase of an ICC program card. These cards, good for six admissions for $3, are available through all foreign language departments, the Department of Humanities, and the Honor program.

U.S. POW's

Aid is refused

MOSCOW (AP) — Three U.S. airmen freed by North Vietnam turned down an American government offer yesterday of a bed for the night, medical attention and transport home.

They told U.S. Charge d'Affaires Adolph Dubs during a tense 20-minute confrontation at the Moscow airport that they wanted to go home with the escort of antiwar activists who arranged their release.

Lt. Mark Gately and Norris Charles of the Navy and Maj.

Edward Elias of the Air Force reached Moscow late yesterday on a long flight from Peking. They were released from a POW camp Sept. 17 with the understanding they would take civilian aircraft to America.

Gately told Dubs, "We'd better proceed in this way for the safe release of the other POW's."

Elias added, "I feel the same way, and I don't want to jeopardize the guys we left behind. If we don't carry out our plans, we'll be failing in respect to those we left behind."

The pilots and their accompaniment of antiwar advocates were scheduled to leave Moscow for New York this morning with a stopover in Copenhagen, Denmark.

When the pilots arrived and were led through a service entrance into the airport customs hall it appeared doubtful Dubs would even have a chance to extend the government's offer of help.

When the pilots arrived and were led through a service entrance into the airport customs hall it appeared doubtful Dubs would even have a chance to extend the government's offer of help.

In an unlighted corner behind them, Cora Weiss, another committee member, shielded the pilots who stood bewildered in the swirl of newsmen, customs officials and curious passengers in transit.

After some discussion it was decided to arrange the meeting in an Aeroflot office at the terminal. Aeroflot is the Soviet airline.

Dubs told them he would make the ambassador's residence available to them for the night, said the embassy doctor was on hand to treat them if needed, and said an Air Force medical evacuation plane would be ready in Copenhagen to fly them to New York.

Each man in turn refused. They said they would spend the night in a Moscow hotel, were in good health and preferred to fly home on commercial air-craft.

Before he left the pilots, Dubs gave them each an American passport.

Afterward, at an impromptu news conference, the escort delegation said they considered Dubs' behavior "threatening."

Asked to explain, Coffin said Dubs had "strongly recommended they take the medevac plane from Copenhagen."

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — alerted and the inmate photo laboratory had been closed as a precaution until it could be determined whether it could be used in illegal activity.

Morgan said Montana license plates also were confiscated within the last three days as possibly were planned for use in stolen car operations in Montana.

"We also have information regarding other types of forged printed material, registered for and the like. We are investigating these matters at this time to expect some arrests within a week or two," Morgan said.

He said the officer in charge of the prison print shop had been

Visas advised for foreigners

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States as of yesterday will require nearly all foreign travelers entering the country to have visas, State Department officials said.

The tightening of entry regulations is to meet the increasing possibility of terrorist acts in the United States and during the current U.N. General Assembly meeting in New York, the officials said.

The regulations will be in effect until Jan. 1.

This means that, with the exception of travelers from Canada, anyone entering the United States even for a temporary stay of less than 10 days will need a visa. In the past, travelers from Western Hemisphere nations or those staying in the United States for less than ten days generally did not need visas.

The officials said the new regulations even apply to persons crossing the border from Mexico.

Atty. Kleindienst acknowledges Watergate event

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst has acknowledged for the first time that the FBI has traced four checks from Republican sources to the bank account of one of five men indicted in the Watergate break-in.

But he added: "I can say categorically no one of responsibility in the White House or the campaign committee had any knowledge of the Watergate incident."

Low and behold...

Question: What does Kresimir Cosic do when he's in the Eyring Science Center and wants a drink of water?

Answer: He goes to the McKay Bldg.

Doubtless, many ESC inhabitants have noticed a small difficulty in getting drinks of water there; it's embarrassing to kneel to a water fountain.

For a while, there was deep speculation as to what might have caused the Science Center architects, back in 1945, to install midget-sized water holes.

Some believed the scarcity of materials at the end of WWII may have forced plumbers to make shorter pipes, so BYU received nursery school installations instead of "real" ones. Others thought the toy fountains were a compromise between short citizens and tall ones, leaving nobody happy.

Finally, William Stacey, utilities engineer at Physical Plant, uncovered information which proved the fountain height was nothing more phenomenal than the fad of the day.

PR students seek practical problems

Organizations interested in obtaining public relations assistance should contact either Dr. Ralph D. Barney or Dr. Raymond Beckham, both of the Communications Dept.

"The BYU Communications Department offers a sequence training students in the handling of professional public relations programs," said Barney, acting public relations sequence coordinator. "The purpose of the program is to provide the student with a professional public relations experience."

"Many students are involved in the Utah County Incentive Fund public relations program," added Beckham. In addition, students have done public relations work for Kennecott Copper Corporation.

"We are flexible enough to handle just about any project now," he continued. However, he indicated, in the near future there would be a shortage of students available to BYU departments and organizations.

If the public relations problem is complex and time-consuming nature, one can also contact the campus club, Public Relations Society for Students in America. Dr. Barney is the adviser.

"Each semester, students belonging to the PRSA are required to handle extensive public relations problems," said Barney.

Cat harriers invade Tucson

BYU's leather-lunged cross-country squad travels to the cactus country of Arizona this weekend for what will probably be their stiffest competition until the WAC title meet in November.

The Brigham, led as usual by Richard Reid, will challenge squads from Arizona and the University of New Mexico on the blistering sands of Tucson Saturday morning.

UA's Wildcats, one of the favorites in the loop this season, will have a decided edge over their mountain-dwelling visitors from Albuquerque and Provo.

A familiarity with the six-mile course sets them up as pre-meet favorites. The familiarity with the hot desert weather moves them into position as almost certain winners in this early-season triangular Commented BYU Coach Gerald James, "We're not really that concerned with winning this meet. We're travelling down there because of the opportunity it affords us to familiarize ourselves with the weather and the course before the championship meet." "We can find a few places around here that are similar in terrain but the weather is something we can't simulate. The last time we competed over this course was in 1968. We didn't fare very well because we weren't prepared for the sand and the heat."

BYU's cross country runners will be in action this weekend in the dry climate of Tucson, Arizona. The harriers are currently 1-0 on the year, with a win over Colorado in a Provo meet.

The third squad in this meet, the New Mexico Lobos, are a question mark to the Cougars. Traditionally the lupine seven have been one of the strongest in the conference.

Carrying the blue-and-white BYU banner this weekend will be Richard Reid, Dave Babiracki, Gary Cramer, Steve Jensen, Richard Bowman, Mitch Wiley and Usma Sotutu.

Brent Atkin and the BYU rodeo team will be in action this weekend.

Weekend rodeo slated

Thirteen teams from the Rocky Mountain Region will be in Provo this weekend to participate in the annual "Intercollegiate Rodeo" which will begin Friday at 7 p.m. at the BYU rodeo arena.

The meet will continue Saturday at 1 p.m. and again at 7 p.m., with participants vying for team trophies as well as individual awards and a chance to participate in the "National Collegiate Rodeo" next summer at Bozeman, Mont.

Bob Kallong, advisor for the BYU Rodeo Club, said each men's team entered in the rodeo will consist of six while the women's teams will have three entries. The women will compete in break away roping, barrel racing and goat tying, while the men will participate in more vigorous events such as bull dogging, steer wrestling, bull riding and saddle bronc riding.

BYU's Brent Atkin, a former winner at the Bozeman nationals and captain of the "National Intercollegiate Rodeo," is captain of the BYU rodeo team. Presently Atkin is first in the region and fifth in the nation in bull dogging.

Open table tennis tourney set

Table tennis buffs at BYU will have a chance to show off their skills this weekend in an open tournament slated by the Cougar table tennis club.

The meet will take place Friday at 5:30 p.m. in the games area of the Wilkinson Center, with everyone invited to participate.

Playing divisions include women's singles, coed doubles, men's singles, classes A and B, and men's doubles. Trophies will be awarded to all winners.

BYU-OSU to open Corvallis grid season

FOE FACTS:

Oregon State University
Nickname: Beavers
Colors: Orange and Black
Coach: Dee Andros (43-31-1)
'71 record: 5-6
Conference: Pac-8
Home: Corvallis, Ore.

The Cougars go on the road this weekend against an Oregon State team that is playing at home for the first time this season.

BYU has split in Provo while the Beavers of Corvallis have suffered three consecutive losses. After a strong win over Kansas State, the Cougars buckled under the slick Aggie offense.

Meanwhile, the Oregon team is getting the short end of three straight losses, losing to San Diego State 18-8, top-ranked USC 51-6, and at week to Iowa 19-11.

With both teams coming from losses, the game promises to be exciting.

Extra incentive stems from the fact that these clubs met. Although the Cougars were previously blanked by the Beavers in 1955 and 1961, they got their revenge in 1967.

On that occasion, the Mountain men upset the Orangemen 31-13, ending the same season the Beavers were beating nationally-ranked Purdue and Southern Cal.

So this intersectional game will carry more than the usual amount of interest. Expected to lead the Beaver offense are Greg Mobley and Rod Jensen. Mobley is averaging 18.7 yds a carry, and Petersen was cited for his efforts against Iowa last week.

Named outstanding defensive player after the Iowa game was Jim Lilly who returned a punt 61 yards for a touchdown and was in on 11 tackles.

Two BYU players will miss Saturday's contest. Defensive tackle Wally Mofitua suffered a knee injury and may be out of action for an indefinite period. Tailback Carl Bower will be the only exception to an other-wise full strength BYU club.

Pete VanValkenburg will play despite a hip-pointher he acquired in the first quarter against Utah State.

The key to the Beavers' set backs has been fumbles. According to LaVell Edwards, BYU head football coach, the Corvallis club has moved the ball "exceptionally well." But fumbles just short of the goal line have ruined those good drives," added Edwards.

Edwards also commented on the Oregon State's "full-back oriented offense," which he compared to that used by teams in the Big Ten.

Other players to watch include Steve Brown and Tom Hickey. Brown, a six-foot three-inch 230 pound sophomore, is leading the Orange defense with 31 solo tackles and a total of 53 tackles.

Quarterback Tom Hickey at six feet, one half inch and 180 pounds has scrambled 160 yards in 51 carries which included one touchdown. He has thrown 19 complete passes for 159 yards.

Both players and coaches in

"MEN, WE'VE JUST ENTERED OREGON STATE BEAVER COUNTRY!"

Corvallis have been working hard to correct their fumbling problem as they look towards their first win of the '72 grid season.

The Cougars will be hoping to erase the uncertainty concerning their abilities which arose last Saturday night.

Intramural News

Three events on schedule

Bill Toomey, Rod Laver and Feld have graciously agreed not to enter the men's intramural individual supremacy race, tennis singles or soccer competition.

The purpose of their refusal to compete is to give Mr. Average BYU Student a chance to win.

"I'd never have a chance to win" is an attitude the program discourages. There are several divisions with a champion in each. All students have an equal opportunity for a title although competition in the independent division is traditionally stronger than in the others.

Entries for the three activities mentioned above are not due until October, with the supremacy and tennis sign-ups due on Oct. 2 and soccer entries due on Oct. 9.

Thus far the Intramural Program has fared well. The activities now underway have doubled last year's participation figures winners.

Top 'tossers'

The first winners of the 1972-73 intramural season were crowned Monday night.

Champions of the independent division in horseshoe doubles competition were Don Robinson and Ollie Lindsay. Lindsay, an employee of BYU, is perennially one of the top shoe-tossers at the University. He and Robinson will now wait for other divisional winners to be crowned, then continue competition in quest of an all-university championship.

October activities schedule

October has something for everyone involved in the BYU intramural program. Below is a calendar of the entry due dates for the various activities. Sign up is in 112 RB.

Its 1,000 full-time faculty members hold degrees from universities throughout the United States and several foreign countries and fifty-four percent of these hold doctor's degrees.

Cycling anyone?

Now is the time for cycle enthusiasts to start training for the intramural bicycle race, Oct. 25. There will be divisions for five and ten-speeds, single speeds and others. The races will be held in the Marriott Center parking lot. It could afford an opportunity for individuals to train for the annual BYU-Utah bike race the day of the U-V football game.

Water polo season set for splash

By BARRY GIBSON
Staff Writer

They say it's a combination of hockey, volleyball, swimming and wrestling. Is that possible?

For the BYU water polo team, not only is it possible, but they are good at it.

This year's water polo team will open its home season Friday and Saturday against Idaho State University and the University of Wyoming at the BYU pool. And those who doubt a combination of those four sports are in for a big surprise.

"Water polo requires an exceptional amount of stamina, more than any other sport," remarked head coach Walter Cryer. "You must tread water all the time."

Not only are you treading water, but wrestling is a big part of polo. Holding the opponent's hips down and hooking his legs are two ways to keep him from the ball.

In addition, players are only allowed to handle the ball with one hand, which makes it even more difficult. With only seven men, one goalie and six fieldmen, and 32 minutes of constant action, stamina is an understatement.

According to Coach Cryer, the team is run like an extramural program. It's not intercollegiate. Although there is no WAC water polo program, most of the teams play, and are part of the NCAA district seven schedule, which includes 28 schools.

"It's hard to say who's going to be strong in this area," mentioned Cryer. "Colorado State University, Air Force and the University of New Mexico are in a class all their own. UNM won the district seven last year, and placed sixth in the NCAA final."

"Utah, BYU, ISU, Denver and Wyoming are still in building programs."

However, BYU plans on showing greater strength this year. Cryer will be looking especially to three swimmers for help.

Sophomore Fred Axelgard will be looked to in the left forward position. In last year's district seven final, he scored seven points against Air Force, who boasted of having the best goalie in town. Fred is fast, strong and very aggressive, and should add real strength to the Cougar seven.

In the hole position, located right in front of the cage, will be Bob Krommenhoek, a transfer from UCLA, and also a sophomore, Cryer says that he is good at leg hooking, and very knowledgeable about the game.

Richard Benning, a senior, is the biggest player on the Cougar team. He will be holding down the guard position, and is the toughest BYU player on defense.

Cryer will also be assisted in the coaching spot by two seasoned veterans.

Fred Baird, former All-American in the butterfly, will lend a hand in forming this year's team, along with Zdranko Grubic from Yugoslavia. Grubic is a former player on the Yugoslavian National Water Polo Team.

The water polo headman has high hopes for this year's season.

"Of course we're in it to win," added Cryer, "and I feel our chances are much better this year than last."

This season's schedule includes 14 dual matches, and five tournaments, including the NCAA region seven tournament to be played here, Nov. 16-18. The winner of this tournament will qualify for the NCAA meet in Albuquerque on Dec. 1-2.

The Cougar seven will also be at home on four other occasions, including this weekend and Oct. 13 and Nov. 10 against the University of Utah.

Riding high after a triumphant effort in last weekend's BYU Soccer Invitational, the Cougar soccermen travel to Colorado and Wyoming this week to battle more collegiate competition.

Today the Cats are scheduled to square off against Colorado College at 3:30 p.m. Colorado rates among the best NCAA soccer teams in the nation.

Friday BYU travels to Laramie to battle the University of Wyoming in another afternoon encounter, this one at 4 p.m. Coach Bruno Gerzeli figures the Wyoming match to be the easier of the two road trip games.

The BYU White soccer squad will play at home this weekend, taking on Alemania from Salt Lake at 4:30 p.m. on Haws Field.

Nixon tends to office; George wants debate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Apparently stung by Democratic challenges to come out and campaign more, President Nixon said yesterday he must spend time in Washington to ward off potential tax-boosting programs of the Democratic controlled Congress.

Nixon's opponent, George S. McGovern, has made no secret of his desire to entice the President into the arena of partisan debate. But Nixon continues to limit himself to quickie campaign outings.

In statements prepared in connection with fund-raising visits to San Francisco and Los Angeles, Nixon said:

"I would welcome the opportunity to take the case for this administration directly to the American people. But my first responsibility is to do my job as president of the United States."

"At the present time there are pending in Congress a number of huge spending proposals which, if enacted into law, would inevitably lead to a tax increase. The best way I can serve the American people is to stay in Washington, when I consider it necessary, to fight those proposals to veto them if they are passed and to enlist enough support in the Congress to sustain my veto."

Nixon's statements were released in the middle of a three-day campaign swing, his most ambitious to date, in search primarily of the 86 electoral votes held by two states—New York and California.

Before leaving New York, Nixon said he didn't simply want victory but rather "a victory for America—that's what we're working for."

Nobel Prize withheld

OSLO, Norway (AP)—The Nobel Peace Prize will not be awarded this year, the 19th omission since the prizes began in 1901.

The five-man Nobel committee of the Norwegian parliament, announcing yesterday that the prize would not be given, did not give any reason.

But the general view in Oslo was that the committee was unable to find a worthy candidate.

The prize money, about $100,000, will be kept in the Nobel fund. The prize was last omitted in 1967.

Expect budget cuts or rising taxes in future, say experts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Either Richard Nixon or George McGovern, as president during the next few years, would have to accept sizable tax increases or slash planned spending to avoid big deficits, a private economic group has concluded.

This would be true even if the economy recovered to the full employment level by 1974, according to the study, commissioned by the privately financed American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research.

The report is sharply critical also of the sharing of federal revenues with states and cities. Congress is on the point of finally enacting a $30-billion, five-year revenue sharing program.

The report says "The federal government may be in the process of begging itself to relieve many state and local governments from having to finance outlays that may never be needed."

Projecting through 1978 the budget effects of programs espoused by both presidential candidates, the study observes: "The picture that emerges is a rather grim one for the Nixon administration..."

"This outlook also presents Sen. McGovern with a bleak starting point for his budget decisions."

The economists who made the

"T" house no more

Builder splits split-level house

HOWELL, Mich. (AP)—Twenty-three-year-old Larry Toner wanted a split-level house, but what he wound up with was a split house.

Because of a dispute between Toner and his builder, the builder had the house saved in half. One half is sitting on the foundation and the other half has been pulled about 15 feet away.

Toner said the house, a tri-level design shaped like a "T," was separated with a power saw where the two wings came together.

Toner and his wife, Donna, 22, were married last June and had hoped to be living in their new home by August. They had special plans drawn up for the house to be built on a lot in a rural area near Howell, about 30 miles west of Detroit.

The house was designed to have three elevations, Toner said, one at ground level, one four steps above and the other five steps below.

"When the builder had thytower level dug," he said, "it came out nine steps below the ground level. You just can't have a tri-level home like that."

Toner said he had a "no deviation" contract with his builder, but contended the plans weren't followed. He said the builder offered to fill the lower level with sand until it was at the proper depth.

But a consulting engineer, whom Toner said he hired at his own expense, said the basement floor might crack in the future if poured over the sand base.

Toner said he offered to put a certain amount of the builder's fee in escrow for a year so that if the floor cracked, he would be assured it would be fixed at the builder's expense.

"But he refused," Toner said. Instead, he said, the builder ordered a house mover last week to cut the house in two, push steel beams under it and haul it away.

Toner went to court and obtained an order barring the builder and his crew from the site.

The builder—Lyle Burk of Brighton—was not available for comment.

Toner, who is not living in the house, said he believes it is beyond repair.

Alumnus recognized

A BYU alumnus, Darrell Cook, is the new director of the flax, added Ryskamp. It is essential to provide contact with the Clark's office for counseling on special cases.

Cook graduated from the BYU Business Management Department in 1969, and from the BYU Institute of Government Service in 1971. He then served as administrative assistant to the Utah County Commission.

PEP, which Cook has the responsibility of administering county wide, is part of President Nixon's Emergency Employment Act. The goals of the program are to get federal tax dollars into local communities where they can ease the local tax burden and reduce the unemployment rate, Cook said.

The Public Service Careers program (PSC), another federally funded program under the department of Labor, is in the process of beginning full scale operation in connection with PEP, explained Cook.

Whereas the goals of PEP are to provide employment positions and funds, the purpose of PSC is to train persons in those positions.

Booth opens for registration details

The ASBYU National Elections Committee has set up a booth in the ELWC Reception Center to inform students of voter registration rules and laws both here in Utah and across the United States.

The booth features a telephone line to insure quick communication with the Utah County Clerk's office, said Committee Chairman George Ryskamp. With Utah registration laws in their present state of flux, added Ryskamp, it is essential to provide contact with the Clark's office for counseling on special cases.

Absentee registration information for all 50 states is also available at the booth.

Those unable to come to the booth may call BYU Ext. 3013 for voter information.

Fillmore installs new free phones in campus buildings

Four new free phones are now available for student use on a trial basis according to Bill Fillmore, ASBYU president.

"If the phones are used a great deal and can show that they will be a useful addition," Fillmore explained, "they will be installed on a permanent basis."

A new free phone is located on the ELWC third floor lobby next to the coat room. Another phone can be found at the south entrance of the library. The J.S.B. has a phone under the south stairway by room 124. The fourth phone is in the RE Building outside of room 134.

The ASBYU also plans to install an extra phone in the HFAC.

"The idea," Fillmore said, "is an attempt to help the student who needs to make a phone call and doesn't have a phone with him."

The program will be financed through student funds in the ASBYU budget. Officials estimate the cost will be about five cents per student for the year.

Existing free phones are located in the ELWC first floor lobby by the canopy exit and at the information desk in the ASB. Also, each dorm on campus has a free phone.

The new phones fulfill a campaign pledge made by Fillmore last spring.

Oaks on tour

President Oaks will be in the Northwest this weekend speaking to alumni, parents of students and friends of BYU, according to a BYU Alumni Association official. Oaks will speak in Boise, Idaho Thursday; Seattle, Wash. on Friday and will attend the football game and speak in Portland, Ore. on Saturday.

The CCH Alumni Association, boasting a membership of more than 8,000 and affiliate clubs as far away as Tonga, requests this update of information so that all may receive the free monthly newspaper for graduates and former students, which is published by the college.

Currency controversy rages

WASHINGTON — Optimism over prospects for reform of the world's money system rose steeply yesterday when France posted a one-year target for agreement on new currency-exchange rates for non-Communist countries.

But disagreement quickly surfaced, even between the European Common Market countries, over what should finally replace the dollar as the new standard of value.

Delegates call for world park

MORAN, Wyo.—The second World Conference on National Parks closed yesterday with international delegates calling for establishment of the first world park in the Antarctic region under direction of the United Nations.

More than 400 delegates from 75 nations were reported unanimous in adopting a resolution suggesting a world park to "further protect the unaltered natural ecosystem of the Antarctic continent and the areas surrounding it."

Jailbird flies coop

TOOELE, Utah—A Massachusetts man who apparently walked away from the jail where he was a prisoner, was being sought yesterday.

Chief Deputy James Park, of the Tooele County Sheriff's Office, said Andrew Johnson, 24, of Brockton, Mass. vanished from the jail about 7 p.m. A national alarm was issued for him yesterday.

Johnson was awaiting trial under a burglary arrest three weeks ago following a series of at least three break-ins.

Coeq varsity athletics allowed in East

NEW YORK—Women will be allowed to participate in varsity athletics at the discretion of member schools, the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference voted yesterday at its 36th annual schedule-making convention.

The ECAC also approved post-season tournaments in soccer, basketball and football for schools in divisions two and three on a regional basis with four teams competing in each region.

Reclamation projects pass House

WASHINGTON—The House passed and sent to the Senate Wednesday a bill to authorize construction, operation and maintenance of five reclamation projects at a total cost of $318.9 million.

The projects include: the Basin Division of the San Luis Valley project in Colorado; the Brantley project in the Pecos River basin, N.M.; the Salmon Falls Division in the Snake River, Idaho area; the O'Neill Unit of the Pick-Sloan Missouri river basin in Nebraska; and the North Loup Division, Neb.

Major housing programs extended

WASHINGTON—The House Rules Committee effectively killed a $10.5-billion controversial housing bill yesterday voting to defer action on it for the remainder of the congressional session.

House leaders, anticipating such action, already had scheduled for emergency handling Monday a resolution temporarily extending major housing programs. Several of these expire Saturday, but officials said a few days' gap would not be unduly burdensome.

Funds allocated to film series

Three hundred dollars of ASBYU funds were allocated, on an Academics Office request, for the film series "Civilization" by members of the Executive Council in their Wednesday evening meeting.

The series was shown last year at no cost to the student.

Three showings at 6:30, 8 and 9:30 p.m. will be offered Oct. 12 in the Joseph Smith Auditorium. The series consists of 13 films covering the development of civilization from its beginnings. The $300 hike brought money budgeted for films in the Academics Office up from the $750 mark originally budgeted it. Ian Neale, campus ombudsman, summarized his functions in remarks before the Council. He reported his office handled 600 cases last year, but that he expects a sharp increase in that number this year.

"We are already handling four to five cases a day," he said.

The office of ASBYU Historian was filled with the appointment of Han Barney, a junior from Salt Lake City.

Appointments of Paul Dobson and Mike Waddups to the Budget Committee were ratified unanimously.

The Council concluded its business with the elimination of three by-laws and adding on revision. Executive Council By-law IX-B-1-70, specifying the duties of the vice president. Women's Activities was eliminated, leaving only the authority stated in the Constitution to define her power.

Renowned dancer at BYU

"Mr. Folk Dance of the United States" is visiting BYU. Vyts Belajus from Lithuania is currently teaching the BYU International Folk Dancers as a special guest instructor.

Many people have asked Vyts, "Where in the world is Lithuania?" His answer has been, "North of Poland, west of Russia and across the Baltic from Sweden."

Vyts pledged that one of the things he would do in America would be to acquaint all foreigners with Lithuania.

Vyts arrived in America at the age of 14 with his 85-year-old grandmother, and began teaching folk dance in 1930 at the age of 21. He was one of the first traveling folk dance teachers in the country, and by 1940 he'd already taught at over 200 universities, colleges and institutions.

Vyts has sparked a nationwide interest in folk dancing. He has been mentioned in such international publications as the "Lithuania Encyclopedia," "Best Known Lithuanians in the United States" and "History of the Lithuanians in Chicago."

Still very active, Vyts has a busy fall itinerary. In three months he will have taught in hundreds of universities in Michigan, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Tennessee, North Carolina, Maryland, Kentucky, Chicago, Milwaukee, Illinois, Ohio, Utah, Colorado, California, and Kansas City. He travels by bus.

Mary Bee Jensen, director of the BYU International Folk

Dancers said, "Vyts is one of my very closest and dearest friends. His generosity, kindness, modesty and dedication is amazing to me."

"Returning from San Francisco where he received a special award at the Kolo Festival, he took the bus over the Rockies in a snowstorm to see our 12th Annual Christmas Around the World Concert."

When the Embassy in Denmark wanted an American group to come and perform at their international folk festival in Vardø, Denmark, the Embassy of Denmark wrote to the People to People Organization in Kansas City. They in turn asked Vyts to recommend a group for the invitation.

Poll shows McGovern wins youth

More than twice as many college students registered to vote intend to vote for Sen George McGovern than for President Richard Nixon, according to the results of a recent survey released by College Poll.

The survey revealed that a majority of the six million college students now registered to vote intend to vote for the Democrat candidate. The breakdown was as follows: McGovern 51 per cent, Nixon 22 per cent, Undecided 21 per cent, Others 3 per cent. Do not intend to vote 3 per cent.

The survey of 890 students on 10 campuses also probed the basic attitudes towards the candidates themselves, asking if their reaction to the candidates was "highly favorable," "favorable" or "not favorable." Both Pres. Nixon and Sen. McGovern received less than 1 per cent on the "highly favorable" rating. The lack of student enthusiasm was also reflected by the large percentage of undecided voters.

A comparison with an August survey of summer school students shows that students are making up their minds about the candidates, both President Nixon and Sen. McGovern gained strength while a number of students undecided in August are now not intending to vote has decreased substantially. The results then were: McGovern 47 per cent, Nixon 16 per cent, undecided 26 per cent, Others 5 per cent. Do not intend to vote 6 per cent.

It also seems apparent that the election war will be the most intense among college students in August, less than 40 per cent of the students felt that the war was a major influence on students' attitudes, but the current poll shows that that figure has doubled to 80 per cent.

A regional analysis of the survey showed that McGovern's strength is in the New England and Middle Atlantic states. The student's strength, on the other hand, was discovered in California and in the Southwest. Almost all other votes came from the north while the West-remains less up.

Visitors admire displays in the Earth Science Museum in the Eyring Physical Science Center.

A giant ground sloth seems to be emerging from the walls near the entrance, ready to devour unwary students.

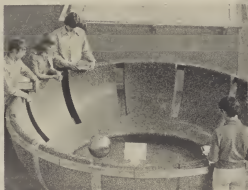

Dr. James "Dinosaur Jim" Jensen sits atop plaster-encased dinosaur bones and wonders what to do with them next. He eventually hopes to display at BYU the largest dinosaur ever found.

If you haven't yet had a chance to visit the Carl Eyring Physical Science Center, you don't know what you are missing. Displays maintained by the Geology, Chemistry and Physics-Astronomy Depts. tell a rather complete story of the physical and earth sciences of Utah and the Rocky Mountain region. Visitors get a glimpse of everything from the Age of Dinosaurs in this area to antique cameras and the evolution of photography. Universe staff photographer Mike Taylor and his photojournalism instructor, Nelson Wadsworth, browsed through the Eyring Center with camera and lenses Wednesday. This is their visual report ...

Studying between classes is a popular pastime on the mezzanine of the Eyring Bldg.

Students watch in fascination as the "Foucault pendulum" swings demonstrate the accelerated motion of the earth.

Dr. Wayne Hales, who pioneered BYU's photography program, displays rare cameras. Collection includes first roll-film Kodak that gave photography to the common man.
